waited in patience, until lights
in the window, announced

Letter from Salisbury

"D" Co, 11th Battalion
Salisbury Plain, England
December 19th, 1914

Dear Kell:

I have intended writing you a few lines for a long time, but I guess better late than never.

I guess you people will be wondering what we are doing in England all this time. We are beginning to wonder ourselves what they took us over for, unless to track up the mud.

The men are really now, at least our general told us so, but there is still some little things in connection with the division to be perfected, then some of the officers are not ready to take charge of our previous lives. I guess we will get away some time, but just for the present it is not very pleasant waiting through and to your knees. You can believe everything you hear about it in the papers. Now and again they give us leave and we take a jaunt up to London. We came home broke and our pack seems to weigh 120 lbs. for a few days afterwards.

There is lots to be seen in London and $1.10 a day goes a long way. A fellow can live like a blooming lord for three or four days on a month's pay. Nearly everybody you see are soldiers. England seems to be full of them. When they are all turned home old Kaiser Bill have his hands full. They are collecting all the time at the rate of about 30,000 a week. Everything is dark in London. In fact, the Strand is not as bright as Oyen, May Street. They are not worrying much about Zeppelins though. There are two squadrons of aeroplanes "about 32" just beside our camp and you would think there were a bunch of cranes in the air all the time. They say if the Zeppelins ever come they will fly right into them.

There are 55 of us in the one shack so you will see it is nearly impossible to get lonesome. We have some funny cards especially when they get a few pints "of English ale or a few rounds of Joanie Walker.

I would like to spend a few days in Oyen and see some of the boys. I suppose Reddies is as wild as ever. I got the Oyen News the other day and noticed Mr. McLean is doing some speech making.

Well Kell, lights out will sound in a minute so I will close. Remember me to Charlie and all the boys, and don't forget to write.

Yours as ever,

M. M. McDonald.

P. S. I have not seen Scotty lately, but likely will see him soon. Mnc.
